1 - AUPOV09 PARTICIPANT RESPONSE

What was the BEST part about AUPOV09 in your opinion ? *

The variety of presentations there were.

I initially assumed, rightly or wrongly, that most presentations would be very similar in content because the topic of POV's is quite narrow one. However, all speakers and presenters had different messages and content which was surprising for me.

The program contained a number of Speakers and Presenters. How would you rate the selection of choice on the program ? *

Varied....gave me plenty to choose from

AUPOV09 was an inaugural event. What would you recommend needs improving upon to make AUPOV10 a bigger and greater event ? *

For VET practitioners who are new to e-learning, there could be included, some presentations where the audience is shown how to create some simple online resources as opposed to highlighting the variety of options available. For example , how to create a simple 'Powerpoint' presentation where the diagrams are interactive or how to edit POV movies using 'Windows Movie Maker'. For a trade teacher, this would be really useful.

Where would you recommend AUPOV10 be located in 2010 ? *

Adelaide, South Australia

Additional Comments - Please give some personal feedback to the organizers of AUPOV09..... *

In reference to my comments above, I talked with a colleague who commented that a lot of the talk at the conference was 'over his head' because he didn't understand the technical jargon that we all so often use.

Maybe, a 'List of Common Jargon Terminology' would be useful.

A lot of trade teachers I believe , find e-learning very confronting because they do not understand it and thus they feel intimidated by it. Maybe , we should think of some simple strategies that we can implement in order to engage this audience more effectively.

What was the BEST part about AUPOV09 in your opinion ? *

Having contact with people who are thinking about, working with, using, reflecting on, trialling the POV technology and establishing a network of people in that face to face mode that can translate into an online network and ongoing discussion..the venue was wonderful..with the waves crashing and the ships meandering past

AUPOV09 was an inaugural event. What would you recommend needs improving upon to make AUPOV10 a bigger and greater event ? *

One day is a long way to travel from interstate..not sure if the program can be extended to a longer program and cover in more detail then the various areas of how to...of use for assess and RPL and then other areas as well as ethical issues and the touchpoints with mobile and other vid/visual evidence as well as the streaming..that opens up a whol new area. Maybe the notion of wearable gear..where you can include mp3 players, rfid and hand held devices....might give scope to extend..I know there's a mobile conference which probably covers this stuff

Additional Comments - Please give some personal feedback to the organizers of AUPOV09..... *

Organisation was thorough and the event was great..wonderful venue, great food, opportunities to chat with folk and prep for presenters straight forward.

Lead up with online network was valuable and obvioulsy has potential to grow as more people use the POV technology. This will hopefully highlight and demonstrate a number of ways and areas that can be developed and thus bring more people into the network. I think generating vids and learning resources using the POV tech has been an effective strategy to 'spread the word' and this needs to be built on.

I found the breadth of aspects covered stimulating..ethical considerations and other forms of wearable vid. Great job.. all the best

Limited....was expecting a greater range

AUPOV09 was an inaugural event. What would you recommend needs improving upon to make AUPOV10 a bigger and greater event ? *

1. Concurring workshops don't allow the audience an opportunity to view the full POV range of products in a working manner, nor use them, and this was terribly disappointing.
2. The POV range of products were poorly communicated and amateurishly displayed.
3. Some of the guest speakers need to convey relevant information, not trivial personal stories!
4. Too much broad information was delivered and not enough detail.

What was the BEST part about AUPOV09 in your opinion ? *

Networking. Hearing from sectors outside of school sector. The high level of discussion around very new technologies alongside practical examples of the actual use of these technologies - so often we go to conferences and the technologies talked about (and their use) are extremely low level.

What was the BEST part about AUPOV09 in your opinion ? *

The networking - but it still wouldn't have been the same without those very provocative and interesting presentations. In the end, because it was so new, and I can network at other times, I would have to say the choice of topics - really up-to-date, provocative (as I mentioned before), stimulating ideas. Excellent presentations.

AUPOV09 was an inaugural event. What would you recommend needs improving upon to make AUPOV10 a bigger and greater event ? *

I think this worked seamlessly (or, at least, it appeared to). I enjoyed the panel (though I think fewer people would have been better as you can only get a quick bite with such large panels). I thought the panel worked well, however, as it knitted together everyone's ideas from their presentations.

Next time - keep to the same number or slightly fewer speakers.

Well, I just loved this conference. I wasn't sure what to expect but anything that looks to the future, learning and teaching practices such as the flat classroom;, ideas, innovation - it's got to be a winner. I really liked the focus - and I can see that this could develop into the field of multiple intelligences which I feel we need to explore more. I would love to see something now on visual learners, mindmapping and dialogue mapping (wicked problems) - perhaps more on the brain and implications for life-long learning.

Maybe there's also scope for altering our mindset on auditing and assessment. If only policy-makers from DET had been there!

Thought-provoking, cutting-edge, reflective - congratulations.

AUPOV09 was an inaugural event. What would you recommend needs improving upon to make AUPOV10 a bigger and greater event ? *

I really enjoyed the variety of presentation methods, eg speakers, panel, workshops. I was disappointed that there wasn't more opportunity to ask questions of the panel. However, there weren't many questions asked on the day and perhaps this was due to the composition. A panel of people who are actually using POV it in the VET sector for learning and assessment may generate more questions from the audience.

Additional Comments - Please give some personal feedback to the organizers of AUPOV09..... *

This was a very well organised conference and the venue was excellent. I think hosting this event in a capital city will support greater participation purely on the basis of transport.

I look forward to the next one when I and my peers will have had a greater opportunity to experiment with the technology in a learning environment.

I made some great contacts through networking and learned some new language, eg jing, second life. I don't know what they are really about yet but I am excited to find out.

Thank you for a great conference.

AUPOV09 was an inaugural event. What would you recommend needs improving upon to make AUPOV10 a bigger and greater event ? *

This is a hard one... I guess you know your audience best...

BUT a few things:

I would love to see more exhibits, and time out just to visit the exhibits... I'd love to see more Oz product focus- homegrown stuff!

Perhaps a brainstorming session?

Perhaps a look at tiers-- preschool/infants; primary school; secondary school; tafe/university... but I am not sure... it is hard to cater for all the different needs... I was still personally fascinated by what secondary school and TAFE teachers had to say about POV etc...

Not sure if POV (the acronym) captures the whole notion of what you guys are trying to achieve... e.g. when I think POV I do not immediately think elearning or eportfolios...

Note: Perhaps at the conference cocktail we could have had more exhibit time??

Not sure if in the future you wanted to also accept academic papers??

Thank you for the invitation to AUPOV, and thank you for the opportunity to speak! WE also appreciated that we could bring our son along, it was hard not to do so after being away from Oz for a few weeks and also because care arrangements were already stretched with the little one looked after...We too look forward to further contact!BTW, have you heard of the product "The Learning Edge" TLE? For an inaugural event it was very successful. That is partly due to its size. I'd hesitate to make it much bigger - anything under 200 delegates is OK. More than that they become more impersonal.

Katina Michael's presentation should have been scheduled before the panel session. The panel session as it was was fine, but following Katina's paranoid presentation would have given the panel a lot more meat to get into to!

(no strong feeling about the location of next year's event)

Just some humble thoughts:-)

- i. Wider distribution of demographic advertising (to bring in additional sectors of the community)
- ii. A strong post advertising presence, to inform the community of the results and success of the meeting, and to announce next year's plans.
- iii. Make the panel smaller, that would permit for a more substantial contribution by the panelists, and open up the discussion to the delegates for a more intimate conversation. This is a critical phase of any conference and additional time should be allocated that it all flows smoothly and encourages some "unrushed" reflection and summation.
